DETAILED ACTION

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 1-10 and 13-24 are allowed.

The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance: Prior art of record including arguments filed in the parent case (application no: 09/437221, now US Patent no. 6621283) does not teach or suggest a semiconductor device comprising a terminal test circuit for testing a state of an external terminal and a test mode control circuit unit for outputting a signal in response to the number of times in which the level of a control signal input to a specific terminal changes as further defined in claim 1.

The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance: Prior art of record including arguments filed in the parent case (application no: 09/437221, now US Patent no. 6621283) does not teach or suggest a method of testing a semiconductor device comprising the step of carrying out first test for checking a state of a contact of a chip select terminal and power supply terminal by supplying a chip select signal to a chip select terminal, and carrying out second test for checking the state of the contact of any input terminal other than chip select terminal by restoring said chip select signal to an inactive level and reactivating said chip select signal as further defined in claim 13.

The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance: Prior art of record including arguments filed in the parent case (application no: 09/437221, now US Patent no. 6621283) does not teach or suggest a semiconductor device comprising a terminal test circuit unit for determining a state of a contact of a second terminal in response to a test mode signal outputted by a test mode control circuit, said test mode
